Chesapeake Science Point Public Charter School is announced to be the CHARTER SCHOOL of the YEAR by Maryland Charter School Network (MCSN), during the 7th Annual Maryland Charter School Conference. The conference held on April 30, 2010, was highlighted by the presence of the Assistant State Superintendent Ann Chafin, AA County Executive Honorable John Leopold, State Director for the Office of School Innovations Hilda Ortiz, along with hundreds of representatives from 42 charter schools in Maryland.

After a thorough study, MCSN decided to award CSP as the Charter School of the year among 42 charter schools serving 11,500 students across the state. David Borinsky, the President of the MCSN Board, has listed CSP's significant accomplishments and mentioned how impressed he was with CSP's ongoing performance.

Spear Lancaster, the CSP Governing Board Vice President is also awarded with the Charter School Extra Mile Award for his tireless efforts on supporting CSP and the charter school movement across the state.

The Honorable Carl Stokes, Baltimore City Councilman presented the Charter School of the Year Certificate to CSP Principal Mr. Kandil and congratulated him for this remarkable accomplishment. Congratulations CSP Community!
